Unique services in Oregon

Our highly specialized faculty and state-of-the-art technology are a resource to people in Oregon and the surrounding region as well as patients who seek us out from other states.

Macular Degeneration Center: A comprehensive center dedicated to research, clinical care and patient education for the leading cause of adult blindness in Oregon.

Oregon State Elks Children's Eye Clinic: A program that provides statewide preschool vision screening as well as treatment for pediatric glaucoma, cataract and orbital and retinal diseases. In December 2020, OHSU Casey Eye Institute opened the first freestanding building for pediatric eye care in North America.

Ocular oncology expertise: The only center in Oregon and one of a few centers in the United States that provides complete care for children and adults who have tumors inside and around their eye. Our fellowship-trained experts have access to both plaque radiation and proton beam radiation.

Neuro-ophthalmology expertise: We have the only full-time neuro-ophthalmologist in Oregon. Additionally, this physician has access to the highly regarded OHSU Pituitary Center care team and clinical trials research.

Ophthalmic Informatics Center: Faculty are pioneering telemedicine approaches to screening and diagnosis of retinopathy of prematurity and other eye diseases. The center also coordinates the use of informatics and electronic health records in ophthalmology.

Ocular immunology lab: Services include several anti-retinal autoantibody tests that can provide vital information on a range of eye conditions, including cancer-associated retinopathy, melanoma-associated retinopathy, autoimmune retinopathy and age-related macular degeneration.

Ocular pathology lab: The Leonard Christensen Eye Pathology Laboratory at Casey is the only full-service eye pathology laboratory in the Pacific Northwest certified through federal regulations outlined by the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988. Our laboratory staff provides a range of histopathological analyses of surgical and experimental eye tissues.

Innovation and research impacting the field

OHSU Casey Eye Institute currently participates in many clinical trials investigating new genetic treatments for ophthalmic conditions and about 50 vision-related clinical trials overall. Some highlights include:

OCT angiography: Our team includes the co-inventor of optical coherence tomography, considered the most important advancement in diagnosing eye conditions in the past 100 years. Our COOL Lab continues to pursue advancements in OCTA, which may transform the diagnosis and treatment for a range of common eye disease.

Gene therapy for retinal dystrophies: As a world leader in gene therapy we have conducted more gene therapy clinical trials than almost any other institution. In 2018, OHSU Casey Eye Institute was one of the first three institutions in the country to administer Luxturna, the first FDA approved gene therapy treatment for Leber's congenital amaurosis.

Gene editing: OHSU Casey Eye Institute performed the first-ever in vivo gene editing procedure with CRISPR technology on a patient with a rare form of retinitis pigmentosa.

Leveraging AI in eye disease: OHSU Casey Eye Institute is a leading center nationwide for investigating telemedicine, AI and data analytics for ophthalmic care.

Serving the community

OHSU Casey Eye Institute’s community outreach programs serve the diverse people and communities in our region. We provide free vision screening for preschool children and operate a mobile clinic that provides free vision exams and other services to adults around the state. Every year the preschool vision screening program screens 8,000 kids for eye disease, and our Community Outreach Program’s mobile clinic provides free vision screening clinics for hundreds of adults as well as free glasses to communities in need.

The explosive growth of faculty carries momentum forward on heels of the new building

The Oregon Elks Children’s Eye Clinic celebrated its first year as a world-class hub for innovative research, subspecialty patient care and leading-edge programs in gene therapy, preschool vision screening and telemedicine for retinopathy of prematurity. The new facility also houses the Wold Family Macular Degeneration Center and the Paul H. Casey Ophthalmic Genetics Program. The 60,000-square-foot building has allowed for the expansion of services and clinical trials, with 12 new faculty members joining the Casey team.

Continuing medical education

Casey Eye Institute offers health care professionals up to four hours of CME per month including grand rounds, lectures and imaging conferences. Courses include various topics in ophthalmology, including all subspecialty areas and the latest advances in eye disease and treatments, and feature top experts from Casey, the regional and the nation. Grand rounds lectures are live-streamed online, which allows physicians to participate remotely. An annual all-day meeting, the Annual Casey Eye Symposium, takes place in May.
